CLASS HISTORY

We started our first year in Charlton Junior High School with Mrs. Horton, as our teacher, and an enrollmentof twenty-two girls, and twenty-two boys. Shortly, however, Mrs. Horton had to leave us, because of illness. Her place was taken by Miss Callanan, and then thinking that the excitement was over, we settled down once again to our studies;but we were not to remain settled because in a few weeks, Miss Callanan left us also because of illness. Our last teacher for that year was Miss Fell.

The class officers elected were as follows; president, Edith Pontbriand; vice-president, Dorothy Robidoux; secretary, Ronald Forkey; and treasurer, Edward Stearns.

Our Honor Roll students for June were: Beryl Foskett, Richard Mushroe, Edith Pontbriand, Dorothy Robidoux, Ronald Forkey, Herbert Brown, Phyllis Gendron, and Alice Racine.

Although we didn't secure first place in the Magazine Contest, we were proud of Robert Dugas, who brought in over $40.

At the annual play contest, we presented "Get Along Little Cowboy." The following pupils took part: Richard Mushroe, Edward Stearns, Daniel Peters, Daniel Cummings, Ronald Forkey, Frederick Hoyle, and George Cody. Although we didn't win, we had fun putting it on.

This ended our first year.

We started our second year in Junior High School with forty pupils, but three, Joseph Butler, Donald Robbins, and Charlotte Swallow, left us. Later Robert Jones and Barbara Jones, Caroline Aubin, and Janice Whitney joined our group. Under the direction of Mrs. Madaus, we again settled down for a year of study.

Our class officers elected this year were: president, Dorothy Robidoux; secretary, Ronald Forkey; and treasurer, George Cody.

Our Honor Roll students this year were: Herbert Brown, Beryl Foskett, Phyllis Gendron, Barbara Jones, Edith Pontbriand, Richard Mushroe, Ronald Forkey, Alice Racine, and Dorothy Robidoux.

At the Prize Speaking Contest, four members of our class took part, namely, Phyllis Gendron and Edith Pontbriand, in the Dramatic Group; Richard Mushroe, in the Humorous Group; and Edward Stearns, in the Oratorical Group. We are proud to say that two of our participants won, namely, Edward Stearns and Richard Mushroe.

We managed to keep our 90% average in stamps so far that year, but we are not so proud, to state that we brought in only $48.80 for the Magazine Contest.

Thus ended our second and last year in Charlton Junior High School.

We started our Freshman year in high school with thirty-eight pupils, twenty-one girls and seventeen boys. But, as everyone knows, each year the class gets smaller. During this year, we lost four pupils, namely, Evangeline MacQuarrie, Daniel Peters, Janice Whitney, Robert Jones, and Ronald Forkey who moved to the West for a year. Later we were joined by Virginia Rosbury, Kenneth Anderson, and Lauria Laprise. This year we had Mr. Maloney as our supervisor.

Our Honor Roll students for our first year in high school were, Beryl Foskett and Edith Pontbriand.

This year we presented "Dynamite Dan," in the Annual Play Contest. The cast was as follows: Richard Mushroe, Ronald Forkey, Peter Lackstrom, Beryl Foskett, Barbara Jones, Edward Stearns, Dorothy Robidoux, Edith Pontbriand, and Kenneth Anderson (who played the part of a dog).

We were well represented in the annual Dramatic Club Play, which was, "Peck's Bad Boy". The following freshmen particapted: Richard Mushroe, (who had the leading role), Edward Stearns, Peter Lackstom, Caroline Aubin, and Barbara Jones.

This year we came in third place in the Magazine Contest.

Thus our first year had come to an end.

We started our Sophomore year in Charlton High School under the direction of Mrs. Fiske. Now, we had thirty-six pupils, but we soon lost some. Those who left us were Barbara Jones, Edward Stearns, and George Cody. We were happy to welcome back one of our long lost classmates, Ronald Forkey who had been out West, also a new member, Stuart Tully.

Our class officers elected for this year were as follows: president, Kenneth Anderson; vice-president, Ronald Forkey; secretary, Mary Sampson; and treasurer, Alice Racine.

For the Annual Play Contest we presented "One Who Came to Gettysburg." With the help of coach, Mrs. Fiske, and the members of the play cast, we are proud to say that we won the cup. The cast was composed of the following: Edward Stearns, Peter Lackstrom, Roger Deveau, Herbert Brown, Edith Pontbriand, and Dorothy Robidoux.

This year we came in a close second in the Magazine Contest, but we bowed out to the Juniors, who won. As a reward for the hard work we did during the Magazine Contest, Mrs. Fiske took us to see the picture, "I Remember Mamma."

We were well-represented by our boys in basketball this season with Robert Dugas, Ronald Forkey, and Kenneth Anderson as first team substitutes, and Stanley Fitts, Stanley Bond, Peter Lackstrom, and Edward Shea as members of the second team. Also three of our girls, Caroline Aubin, Edith Pontbriand, and Mary Sampson, were selected as cheer leaders.

Honor Roll students for this year were: Beryl Foskett, Edith Pontbriand, Alice Racine, and Virginia Rosbury.

Now that our Sophomore year is over, we turn to the memories of our Junior year.

Now, as we start our Junior year, with Mrs. Hammond as our beloved supervisor, we have dwindled down to twenty-nine students. We were indeed sorry to lose Herbert Brown, Daniel Cummings, Stanley Fitts, Barbara Burnell, and Mary Sampson. But we were soon joined by Marie Pierce.

The class officers for this year were: president, Ronald Forkey; vice-president, Mary Sampson; secretary, Alice Racine; and treasurer, Lauria Laprise.

At the Annual Play Contest we presented "The Brave Shall Serve." The cast was as follows: Dorothy Robidoux, Edith Pontbriand, Phyllis Gendron, Herbert Brown, Richard Mushroe, Roger Deveau, and Peter Lackstrom.

Our Honor Roll student for this year was Beryl Foskett.

We sold Salt Water Taffy this year to add money to our treasury, and this was also a big year for us, as we had our Junior Prom.

Our annual Junior Prom was presented on May 13, with Morty Gould's Orchestra furnishing the music. The town hall was beautifully decorated in the class colors, blue and silver, with "Star Dust" as our theme. Our class flower is the yellow rose. A revolving crystal ball was a feature that made the decorations and the hall twice as beautiful. Patrons and Patronesses were: Superintendent and Mrs. Joseph Burgess, Principal and Mrs. H. Lea Mushroe, and Mr. and Mrs. Hector Pontbriand. Ronald Forkey and Mary Sampson led the grand march.

With the prom still in our minds and hearts, we ended our Junior year with sadness, but, still looking forward eagerly to the opening of school when we would start our final and our best year in Charlton High School.

September had finally come, and we came back to Charlton High School to complete our last year under the supervision of Mr. Berube. We are now down to a low twenty-six; but as we lost Frances Grant in the middle of the year, we are now a class of twenty-five, but we are still one of the largest graduating classes of Charlton High School.

The class officers chosen for this year were as follows: president, Robert Christiansen; vice-president, Mary Hilton; secretary, Alice Racine; and treasurer, Irene Boulanger.

Edith Pontbriand represented our school in the annual D. A. R. convention, in Boston. Edith is also president of Student Council, and we are proud to say she is doing a good job of it.

We raised money for our treasury by doing various things. First, we had two paper drives: one in October and one in April; we sold Christmas Cards; and we held an auction in November, with Barney Richards as auctioneer.

During the spring vacation, we went to New York for our three day class trip. The chaperones were Mr. Berube, Miss Themistocles, Mrs. Madaus, and Mrs. Healy. A good time was had by all. It was an educational trip, as well as a pleasure trip, as some of the sights were historical.

On April 28th and 29th, we presented our annual Senior Play, which was a Jane Austen's classic, "Pride and Prejudice". The entire senior class was cast in this presentation. They were as follows: Dorothy Robidoux, Caroline Aubin, Beryl Foskett, Edith Pontbriand, Irene Boulanger, Mary Hilton, Virginia Rosbury, Phyllis Gendron, Floris Stone, Sylvia Fitts, Bernice Barnes, Claire Benoit, Lauria Laprise, Marie Pierce, Shirley Prunier, Alice Racine, Richard Mushroe, Ronald Forkey, Kenneth Anderson, Robert Dugas, Roger Deveau, Edward Shea, Stuart Tully, Kenneth Cleveland, and Robert Christiansen. With the help of Mrs. Fiske, our coach, the play was a great success.

The graduation speakers for the class of 1950 are as follows: Edith Pontbriand, Beryl Foskett, Dorothy Robidoux, Phyllis Gendron, and Richard Mushroe.

The class day speakers are Robert Christiansen, Caroline Aubin, Kenneth Anderson, Ronald Forkey, Alice Racine, and Roger Deveau.

The Honor Roll students for this year so far are: Sylvia Fitts, Lauria Laprise, Shirley Prunier, Dorothy Robidoux, Virginia Rosbury, and we are proud to say that Beryl Foskett has carried Highest Honors for the year of 1950.

With these thoughts of our six years in Charlton High School still in our memories, we close the pages of our school days and look toward a still happier future.

Respectfully submitted,
Caroline Aubin,
Senior.

CLASS PROPHECY

It is the year of 1960, and I have just returned (with my wife and children) from a tour of the United States. I took two months off from work, in my florist business as I thought that, after making Ten Thousand last year, I could well afford it.

I guess it all started on the day we left-a bright June day similar to the one on which we were graduated. As we were about to leave my home, in Worcester, my old friend and classmate, Ronald Forkey, drove up in a new Cadillac.After an hour's discussion over old times, I found out that Forkey was head salesman for Sears and Roebuck, in Boston. As I had always predicted Forkey wasn't "hitched" yet. He was happy-go-lucky and full of fun, as usual.

Then, my family and I started on our journey across the country. I thought, since it was ten years since I was graduated from Charlton High School, that I would do my best to see as many classmates of mine as possible, en route.

When we got to the big city of New York, I decided to look up my classmate, Dorothy Robidoux. She had her own radio show in which she sang all the latest hits. The family and I went to hear her. "Dottie" was good, so we thought. When the announcer walked on the stage, I almost dropped; for she was none other than our own Shirley Prunier.

I thought those two C.H.S. pals would never leave each other, and I was right. Shirley saw anopening for women on Television and radio, so she went to school to study. Both girls were happily married to some rich good looking men.

On the thirteenth of June, we were on our way to Cleveland, Ohio. I remembered Kenny Cleveland saying something about going there to work. I guess he went to work all right. He owned a building Construction outfit. He came to work ten years ago and now he could just sit all day and tell his men what to do. Kenny still looked the same and was married to his old girl friend from Charlton High days; so Kenny was all set for life.

We wandered across the northern part of the United States until we reached Michigan. A Sunday afternoon we drove up to a "swanky" curb service Diner. This was similar to the ones in the movies, almost all glass with fancy seats inside- the name on the sign was, "Caroline". The service was wonderful. I asked the waitress about the name, and sure enough it was Caroline Aubin's business. Caroline was busy signing papers to buy more land to enlarge her business. So you see we didn't talk long with her. We did find out that she wasn't married, and thought she might come out to Massachusetts to see old

Charlton friends when she had built a few more of these restaurants.

Caroline told me that "Eddie" Shea was a big time photographer for a Chicago newspaper. We drove back to see "Ed" and, sure enough, bachelor boy "Ed" had his own office, private secretary, and the "works." I had quite a chat with "Ed". He was not the boy he used to be. "Ed," by the way, told me that Bernice Barnes was quite a success in the Telephone Company in the West. So we naturally paid her a visit and had dinner with her. She wasn't so bashfull as she was in school, in fact, she had a diamond; so everything was going well with her.

A week before we left for our family trip to the West, I got a letter from Dick Mushroe. My old friend, Richard, was living in Los Angeles, California. When we got there, about 12 P. M., I learned from a family next door that Dick was working in a new chemical research laboratory.We finally found our way to the place where he was head boss. After a brief talk of old times, we continued our journey.

Our next stop was Houston, Texas. When we got there, I drove up to the gate of a Ranch Tourist Home; and who was there but Sylvia Fitts. It seemed, funny listening to her talk with a drawl, but that is Texas. I found out the difference between a riding horse and a work horse. I left to find another classmate.

Riding through Missouri, I stopped for gas at a large service station with a strange name. While talking to me, the attendant told me that the big boss of these stations was Roger Deveau. Then, a large new car drove into the yard and who stepped out but Roger himself. I inquired about this business of his, and this was his story: he and some college friends of his, went for a trip and just by accident, he found an oil pool coming out of the ground--hence the wealth. Oh, yes, he is married and has two clever children. He was busy as could be, so we left him and were on our way.

We found out from Roger that our classmate, Claire Benoit, had her own Dress Shoppe in Virginia. When we got there we looked around and sure enough just in front of us there was a sign that read "Claire's Dress Shoppe". I admired her exquisite office as we talked over old times; and finally she got around to telling me that Lauria LaPrise was in the same business; in fact, they owned the store together. Claire called for Lauria, and the three of us talked of old C. H. S. days. They were both single and were, what you might call; "career girls." Business was rushing in from all over the states and even Canada. Anything in the line of a dress, any style or color, they carried. I left there after a pleasant two hour visit.

My next sojourn was with Irene Boulanger in Newark, New Jersey. I had heard a great deal of what she was doing especially as a talent scout for big shows in New York. We found

Irene in good health, and we got a very friendly reception. She told me that she had gone to business school and had been interested in this sort of work, so she thought it would be a good job. She had done wonders in Show Business, with the aid of her husband, who is a stage producer. I had to be home in a few days, so we found it necessary to leave almost immediately as I wished to meet the rest of the high school gang.

On the way through Albany, New York we stopped in a hotel where a secretarial convention was being held. As we entered the dining room that night, we met Virginia Rosbury, Floris Stone, and Beryl Foskett. We had dinner together and talked about what had happened since we had all left high school. All three girls had gone to secretarial school and were very well-situated in the business world. Virginia worked for a doctor, in Springfield; Floris, for a lawyer, in Boston; and Beryl, for a business concern in Albany. Beryl was the only one of the three who had married. It was fun being with them and they told me where I could find the rest of the class of 1950.

The next stop was to see Stuart Tully, who owned a Woolen Mill in Hartford, Conn. We got there on a Sunday and found Stuart and his family at home. We spent the entire day enjoying his modern estate. He took me down to see his mill with all its modern conveniences. It was well-worth anyone's seeing. We spent the night at his home and were all set to go home to see the others.

I stopped in to see Christy, who was in Holland, Mass. His farm looked wonderful, every 460 acres of it. His farm, like Stuart's Mill, had every modern convenience that there was to have. Christy and I were out in the pasture talking over the days at Charlton Center and what fun school days were; just then someone called me, and it was none other than Mary Hilton.

Mary, and husband owned a farm down the road. They raised chickens and sold eggs. Mary had married right after she was graduated; and five years ago, she had bought this farm. While talking to Christy and Mary, I had remembered Edith Pontbriand and Alice Racine. I left Christiansen's farm and was on my way to Southbridge, Mass.

"Puffy" had worked her way up in the educational world to where she was a Principal of Mary Wells High School. I dropped in on herein the school, and she seemed very surprised. After she got through giving a boy the dickens (for writing on the wall), we had a very friendly chat. I told her of the trip and what the gang was doing. Another bad boy came in for punishment too, so I thought I'd better get out of there, while the getting was good.

When I got into the center of the town, I saw Alice Racine walking along Main Street. I stopped and asked her what she was doing. She told me that she was head Nurse at the Harrington Memorial Hospital. Alice had received an M.D. and was going to school for further education in the field of Medicine. A police man told me to get a move on, so I had to get out of the way of traffic. I left Alice and was on my way down to see Bob Dugas, who owned an Electrical Supply Store.

Bob was the same old boy I knew him to be in high school. He had 56 men working for him and a fleet of trucks. They had work all over Massachusetts. He was married and owned a house in Charlton. On our way home we got a look at the house and what a home! I guess Bob is really in "the dough" as the expression goes. I was on my way to Worcester to see the last of my schoolmates in the class of 1950. When we reached Worcester, my Wife wanted to do some shopping in the Boston Store. While she was looking around, I paid a visit to a lady who was dashing around like a house-a-fire. I stopped her and had a little talk with her about the old days ten years ago. It was none other than my friend Phyllis Gendron, who had gone to school to study to be a buyer and had secured a position in the store and worked her way up to president. She is not married, as yet, but the way she was talking, it won't be long. My wife finished shopping and joined me so we left to get something to eat.

The girl who sat beside me in my Senior year at school was married, and she and her husband were in the "Fish and Chip" business on Main Street. Neither Marie nor her husband worked there. They enjoyed life while their employees took care of the business. As I was lucky to find Marie there, we had a meal "on the house". We had a little "gab" session for a while. Marie had not changed much as she was still full of fun and had a big grin from ear to ear. She said that she had a little trouble getting started in business, but that every thing was under control now.

When I got home, I felt like a million dollars. I figured this was a "swell trip" that happens once in a life time. The family had a grand time enjoying the scenery, and I had a wonderful time seeing everyone of my classmates in the class of 1950.

I had a wonderful class reunion and realized that our class prophocy had really came true.

WELCOME ADDRESS

As president of the class of 1950, I am pleased to extend a cordial welcome to our parents, faculty members, relatives, friends, and underclassmen.

Now, as we become reminiscent regarding our high school days, we cannot help feeling rather sad that the time for parting has really come. We do realize, however, that our lives are richer, and better because of the opportunities that we have enjoyed during the past four years.

Robert Christiansen,
Senior

CHARGE TO THE JUNIORS

As we, the class of 1950, leave Charlton High School, we wish to give the underclassmen the following advice:

First: Remember that, since you are the oldest group in the building, it is your duty to set a good example for all underclassmen.

Second: Help to make your school a success by taking part in all activities; such as, Magazine Contests, Glee Club, Athletic Contests, and Student Council, etc. Being active in these affairs helps to develop your own talents, just as it helps the school.

Third: Don't forget that your teachers are your guides, helpers, and friends, and that if you show the right spirit and do your best, they will be in a position to help you get the most out of school.

As President of the Senior Class, I take great pleasure in presenting this key of responsibility to the President of the Junior Class, "Wayne Farr", and in wishing that class "Good Luck."

Robert Christiansen,
Senior

To the teachers, we leave our thanks for their help and guidance through the school years.

This was all written in fun; no offense is meant for anyone.

CLASS SONG

Tune: Whispering Hope

Words by Edward Shea

Now, as our school days are ending,
We bid you all fond adieu.
Farewell to teachers and classmates,
Now that our school days are through.

Years of happiness ending,
Sadden our hearts at their flight.
Hope for a glorious tomorrow,
For a future that's bright.

Refrain:

Sad to depart
From dear Charlton High School,
Making our hearts
In their sorrows rejoice.

WHY THE ELECTORAL SYSTEM IS A THREAT TO DEMOCRACY

This statement is true!The present system of electing our president, the most important man in a democratic government is a threat to Democracy, in a Democratic Government that depends almost entirely upon the will of the people. It depends not just upon a chosen few, but upon the entire population of the country.

Now, I will attempt to explain our present system. Each state is given as many electoral votes as it has members in Congress. Right there is the first error. Each State has two Senators, but its Representatives are apportioned according to states' population. So a state with two representatives should have four electoral votes. They would have doubled their rightful vote. But a state with fifty representatives would have fifty-two electoral votes. They would merely have added one twenty-fifth to their original vote. So, one person's vote in the first state would actually count much more than a vote from the latter state.

Next,the electors are voted for, one for each electoral vote. After the votes for president are counted, they are not added and the presidency given to the man with the most votes as you would expect.Instead,the man that has "carried" each state, is determined. To carry a state means to get the most votes in that state.

When the electors meet in their respective state capitals, and cast their votes for President, they are supposed to vote for the candidate who carries their state, but they do not have to! They could vote for Charlie McCarthy if they wanted to, and if Charlie got enough votes, the famous puppet would become President. Of course, this example is a little far fetched, but it goes to show just how dangerous this system can be, and has been, in the hands of the wrong men.

That is not all. When the electors' votes are counted in Washington, if no candidate has a majority of votes, then the election would go to the House of Representatives,to vote as it pleases!

Are we to allow this dangerous system to remain? Get together, friends, and do something about it. Work for the Direct Vote of U.S. President.

And then again it is often the taunt people who have the deep feeling and who will not allow the masses to know these deepest feelings. The things you feel most you keep personal and away from the ridicule of others. Not all the Modern 20th Century world is unappreciative of beauties of Nature.

STUDY

Study is important. Perhaps you find that statement hard to believe. Well, a few years ago I was doubtful too, but now I realize that study will provide the necessary background for college. A good high school record is a safe foundation for your achievement in college. Loafing will not bring those marks that everyone wants.

The following are good study habits:

1. Record your assignments accurately;
2. Budget your study time;
3. Begin with your hardest assignment;
4. Concentrate as you read;
5. Use your dictionary often;
6. Assemble important ideas and facts;
7. Review frequently.

HIROSHIMA! NAGASAKI! NEW YORK?

In the past few months, it has become increasingly clear that atomic energy will play an important and maybe disastrous role in the future of the world. The horrible weapons that have been discovered by science, in very recent years, are definite reasons for the formation of an international control organization that will insure us against a World War III, that will wreak terrible destruction on the entire world.

Although some scholars and military men believe that a third War is inevitable, all agree that every possible step to avert such a war must be taken. Past attempts to set up such control have invariably met with failure because of stubborness on the part of a major power to compromise on some minor matter. Why is it that the leaders of the major countries can not agree on the control of these terrible weapons that can so easily destroy all the progress that man has made in the last thousand years.

Church leaders agree that unless some satisfactory agreement is reached soon, all attempts to hold peace will be forgotten, and the world will drift to another war, which will be so devastating and demoralizing that any country which wins will be destroyed as the defeated nations and civilization will be set back to medieval times.

Let us pray that the leaders of our country will be successful in promoting lasting peace.

RESOLVED THAT THE HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS SHOULD NOT RECEIVE MARKS OR GRADES.

Have you ever heard of such a foolish useless statement in your whole life? How could anyone possibly know what he is accomplishing, or what he has learned: how could a person hope to better himself if he has no proof of the fact that he deserves promotion; and finally, how can a person enter college if no one knows if he has the ability or preparation?

Oh, certainly, a college could give each applicant a test covering four years of high school just to make certain that the applicant has the ability to further his education; but think of the applicant. He does not know his weak points because he has no record of the grades he should have received in his subjects, so he could not possibly study for a test which will be the sole basis on which entrance will be judged.

Another problem presents itself: How are we to tell when a pupil is ready to be graduated? Many pupils graduate with low marks, and these same pupils certainly could not pass a test on four years'work when they can barely pass a test on work done for one year.

I think that in this short composition I have shown how foolish is the idea of abolishing marks. There are many other reasons to refute this idea, but I believe that the few reasons I have given are strong enough to make other reasons unnecessary.

VOCATIONAL COURSES ARE GOOD

Many high school students in the past years have been joining a Vocational Agricultural or Home Economics Course.

Some of these pupils joined these Vocational courses to get rid of work and to acquire two easy credits toward graduation--they thought.

Some joined to be with the gang, and some pupils joined Vocational courses to learn, and grasp, throught personal experience, those experiences offered by the Vocational courses.

If a student were asked about the Vocational course; and he had joined just to get the credits, he would likely say, "It is not worth your time," or if he had joined to be with the gang, he would reply, "The course is too hard." But if he were a real Vocational student, he would say, "It is a very good course, and the ranking is dependent upon your attitude, and your effort, as well as your ability.

If a student is interested and wants a good, Vocational future, he should join a Vocational course. It gives two credits per year in high school, and with it a person can win scholarships and get into Agricultural college."

This Vocational Agricultural course is based on the following: Class room work with farm mechanics, the supervised farming mechanics, the supervised farming program, consisting of; 1. ownership or management enterprises, 2. improvement enterprises, 3. supplementary enterprises, 4. placement enterprises. The day school fills the needs of high school students. The interest is farm training school for veterans.

The adult program is a night school usually. This course supplies training for a future farmer. The farm is our food supply in the United States and the world. If the science of Agriculture does not step in and teach the young people how to conserve land and prepare it for future farming and food raising, we will be a financial "flop" in years to come. Therefore I firmly believe that the Vocational courses, given in our high school, are very worthwhile and interesting. Vocational Agriculture should be taken up by all those who plan farming for a future career.

HOME ECONOMICS

This year two new courses were inaugurated in our school, namely, Home Economics and Vocational Agriculture. Home Economics is, in my opinion, a course which every girl should study. Home "Ec" offers many advantages. This year we have had nutrition, food preparation and menu planning, textiles, selection, care, and construction of clothing. In cooking class we have made many kinds of cakes and cookies, and all different kinds of main dishes. We were taught how to select, then alter a pattern, to make dresses, blouses, and skirts.

This year we also expect to study child care and management of the household; such as, food budgeting, laundering and family and social relations. We planned and cooked one meal for the school board, and we expect to give another one very shortly.

The Board of Education requires that we have one hundred and fifty hours in home project work. Home projects may include work inthe following fields: Care and guidance of children, family and social relations, consumer buying, health, home care of the sick, laundering, personal care, provision of food for family, construction and renovation of clothing, and numerous other household duties.

The homemaker can make the home more beautiful when she can create and sew things for family and home life. She renews training in social events, and she knows the basic arts of entertaining, and the value of personal relationships.

In summarizing I believe, that Home "Ec" is a course which all girls can use throughout your entire life.

WARNING ON H - BOMB

Dr. Albert Einstein, the world's most famous scientist, warned that the setting off of hydrogen bombs could cause radio-active poisoning of the earth's atmosphere. This would mean that life on earth would be wiped out.

Another scientist, Dr. Hans A. Bethe, said that it is not known how many hydrogen bombs would have to be exploded to poison the atmosphere. He explained it in the following way:

When a hydrogen bomb explodes, one neutron is given off for every four hydrogen atoms which combine to become helium. The neutron may tend to cut atoms of the surrounding air, water or land and make them radioactive.

If the hydrogen bomb were exploded in the air, the neutrons would tend to act with nitrogen in the air. Then, the nitrogen would be turned into carbon, which is radioactive.

Carbon is the building block of all materials, which are living; it is stored in plants and animals in the form of sugars and proteins. If this radioactive carbon is stored, the animals eat plants, and humans eat both plants and animals. Thus more and more radioactive carbon would be built up. Given time it could wipe out all life.

Any of the greatest cities in the world could be destroyed by a single hydrogen bomb, which makes this bomb no longer a weapon of war, but a means of killing off an entire population.

My D. A. R. Trip

Thursday morning, March 31, I left early so that I could be at Howard Johnson's at 7:30 A. M., the place where I was to meet the Chapter Regent, Miss Miller, and another member of the Chapter, Miss Clark. I arrived just in time to meet the Oxford D. A. R. candidate. After waiting a few moments, the two candidates from Webster and Southbridge arrived; then we were ready to depart.

We reached the Copley Plaza, Boston in time to register and then went directly to the Assembly Hall. After hearing a wonderful address from Dr. Hawkes, we listened to some of the D. A. R. business meetings. It so happened that this was the year the D. A. R. had nomination for offices, so the meeting lasted longer than usual. Finally, the girl to represent the National Conference was chosen. The girl selected this year was from Westboro.

Then, we left the Copley Plaza for the sightseeing busses, which were waiting for us outside. These busses took us to the Boston City Club for lunch. After lunch, we went to the State House, where a guide pointed out some interesting things. Then, we went to meet Governor Dever. After waiting for about an hour and one half, we finally saw the Governor, who gave us a short speech. He posed with the lucky winner for a picture.

We then returned to the Copley Plaza, where we met the people with whom we had come. About this time we were all ready to leave for home.

I enjoyed my trip very much as it was a wonderful experience for us all.

"School Days"

When your're in school,
Oh, how the time flies;
But when school days are out,
Then, how the time just dies.

You wish you were behind the desk once more,
With ink and pen trying to get a good score;
Or down in the cafeteria carrying a tray;
Or up in room 10 practicing a play
Oh, how you hated school then;
But now you wish you were there again.

"The Beginning and Not the End"

Well, here I am at last. Oh, am I out of step again? No, I guess not, Edith is marching in this same way. Boy, there's mother and dad!

Well, I better watch for these back stairs as I'm going to trip. For pity sakes, all the teachers are here! I didn't see that before. Frankly, I guess they should be getting diplomas. They certainly deserve them with all their hard work.

My speech oh...oh...I can't have forgotten it. No, I'm just getting nervous. I must quiet down. Now, let's see! Does Education Still Have a Future? That's it. Of course, I know it.

Oh, they've turned around. The audience is looking at us as if this were the end. It can't be! I've waited too long for this day. Why, next fall I'm going to college, and that's the real beginning. This isn't the end. It can't be.

Why, do my clothes feel damp? I'm not nervous! I can't be. The music has stopped. It can't be too bad as I'm the first speaker, and this is just like a regular prize speaking night. I wonder if they really listen to the speeches. Oh, music has stopped. I guess I better get up. No, I must not, not yet. The minister speaks first.

Well, that's done. I've never felt better before in my life than I do this minute. That was certainly an end.

I wonder what I will remember most from all this? The education part certainly. I suppose I will remember the basketball games in this room. I wonder if they'll win them all for just one season. I guess that's asking too much. Maybe if they just won three games in a row it would be more like it.

What have they been saying? My goodness, who's this man? Oh, the speaker. Well, I suppose it should be good. That's right. You're absolutely right....this is a beginning. Oh, a challenge. Of course, it's a challenge. He certainly must know how we feel. So we won't be in a war. That's surely reassuring. Our challenge to make peace. My goodness, Mrs. Horton is listening. How can anyone make peace with that old battle-axe? That's exactly what he is saying make peace with your neighbors first before you expect to be at peace with the world. I suppose Mrs. Horton is lonely. I guess she doesn't mean to gossip as much as she does.

What's he quoting? It's Longfellow's Psalm of Life. I've always liked that. Especially this part-

"Let us then, be up and doing,
With a heart for any fate;
Still achieving, still pursuing,
Learn to labor and to wait."

The diplomas are going to be presented. My name-----that's my name.

Imagine this small piece of paper. It is what I've worked for during four years.

It certainly doesn't show the hard work...the heartaches... the moments of happiness too...for there were such moments. This is part of the beginning. I guess I have grown older and more mature. That's what it really means. This doesn't show the end of four years of high school. It shows that I am finally able to go into the world as an adult. It means going out and doing my share in the workd...and that's the beginning.

"Graduation"

To Charlton High you say goodbye,
With a feeling of regret.
All the things that school has done for you
You surely will never forget.

With advice and many lessons,
Teachers have helped you on your way;
And with their work and guidance,
They've put you there to stay.

They've led you to a greater life
One of responsibility,
Their work and strife
For you has been free.

You try to make them proud of you;
So, in the years to come, they may say,
They are a part of the class of "50"
That I have helped upon its way.

Senior Trip

Your trip will be fun
With teachers, baggage, everyone
You get up about dawn
And all day long
You yawn and yawn
You board a bus!
Oh! What a time
The other passengers who were sleeping well-
Wish you all would go to New York.

You arrive at noon
That's not too soon,
Where do you go?
To a hotel?
So
You dump your baggage
Oh! Happy day,
Then you're off and on your way.
You visit places-big and small,
And even go sliding down the hall.

You take a tour
Through N. B. C.
A nd you holler, "Oh! my feet"
It's time for supper. "Oh I feel low;
Don't tell me you forgot your dough!
Oh, well, your friends are near
They'll always help you, dear.
When at last your supper's done,
You wish you had another one.

The teachers are all "fagged out,"
But you? Ha, you say let's go
To see the Perry Como show.
You get your seats and swoon and swoon,
And wave to friends you'll see soon.

They are watching you on T. V.
Oh! dear, fancy me.
You stumble back to the hotel
And sleep and sleep, till you
Hear a bell.
Then, up you spring
Oh, boy! Oh, joy!
Another day. I feel so coy.
Your breakfast you have eaten,
Today you don't feel beaten.

You start out the day right.
As the sun is shining bright.
You visit all the dandy places.
Then, return to pack (of all things)your suitcases.
You board a bus; you're headed home
When at last the green hills of Charlton you see
You all feel fine all but me,
You see I couldn't go.

My Trip to Shrewsbury

On April 12, 1950 four members of the Student Council and our principal, Mr. H. L. Mushroe, attended the Student Council meeting in Shrewsbury.

We arrived there about three-thirty, and we were welcomed by members of the Shrewsbury High School. We registered in the school and were given cards. We then attended a welcome meeting, followed by a round table discussion, where we learned about various other schools and their activities. Then we went downstairs to the cafeteria to eat a delicious turkey supper.

After dinner, we went back upstairs to select new officers. When this was completed, we were entertained by a dance which proved to be a great deal of fun for all.

I surely enjoyed this trip which was entertaining and profitable for I learned how other Student Council function.

Apologies to Robert Browning

Oh, to be in Charlton,
Now that April's there!
For whoever wakes in Charlton
Sees, some morning, unaware
That the trees bud, and the dew is immense
Round the maple tree bole are in tiny leaf
While the robin sings on the backyard fence-
In Charlton ______________now!

And after April, when May follows,
And the Blue bird builds, and all the sparrows!
Hark, where my blossomed apple tree, in the field,
Leans to the earth and scatters on the clover
Blossoms and dew drops - in the fall, the fruit will yield
That's the wise robin, he sings each song twice over,
Lest you should think he never could recapture
The first fine careless rapture.

And Though the yard looks wise with hoary dew,
All will be gay when noontime wakes anew.

Music Festival

On Wednesday afternoon, April 12, 1950, Denise Buteau, Paul Granger, Walter Lojko, and Beryl Foskett left Charlton High School with Miss Putnam, music supervisor, for West Springfield and the New England Music Festival.

We arrived at our destination about 4:20 P.M. and registered at the West Springfield Junior High School. The boys found that they were to stay across the street so they went to their homes; but as Denise and I were out in the suburbs, we did not have time to visit our home then.

At five o'clock, we had a mass meeting in the Junior High School auditorium; at six o'clock, we ate supper at Gilbarco's cafeteria.

At seven thirty, we had our first rehearsal, with director Lara Hoggard, who received his Doctor's degree at Columbia University, and now directs"Fred Waring's Pennsylvania's".

Denise and I stayed at a very attractive home, where we met Natilie MacDougall, from Falmouth.

Thursday morning we had breakfast with our hostess. At nine o'clock we had rehearsal until noon; and then, we walked up to the Y. M. C. A. After rehearsals we went square dancing at the gymnasium, then we enjoyed supper, followed by a rehearsal, dancing, finally bed.

Friday we rehearsed in the morning, in the afternoon, and in the evening. After the noon rehearsal, we visited the planetarium of Springfield.

Saturday morning we had our last rehearsal, followed by group pictures. At two fifteen we gave our initial concert, at the Springfield Municipal Auditorium, with a chorus of three hundred. This was a radio broadcast. Afterwards we went shopping and heard the band and orchestra. After supper at Gilbarcos, we appeared (the girls dressed in gowns, the boys in dark suits) for our evening concert. After the concert, there was a dance at the Y. M.C. A., but we were so tired that we went to our rooms.

Sunday morning we started for home, and arrived in Charlton at ten A. M.

We who attended the music Festival had a wonderful time, and learned a great deal.

Girls' Sports

This year our Girls' Basketball team played with Spencer and Brookfield in regular games. We had two scrimmages with the Alumni, and one with Mary Wells High School. Although our team lost the games with Spencer and Brookfield, they were very successful against the Alumni. We hope our teams ably coached by Miss Themistocles will engage in more games next year and will win a good percentage of them.

For the first time in quite a few years, the girls had a soft-ball team, with Shirley Casey as manager assisted by Joan Bassett. Practice started around the first of May.

Respectfully submitted,
Caroline Aubin,
Basketball Manager
